Quick Reference Guide:

1. Decide what you will be storing.
2. Arrange items based on how frequently you plan to access them.
3. Maximize vertical space.
4. Disassemble large pieces of furniture when possible.
5. Fill empty spaces with oddly shaped or malleable items.

Stress-Free Tips to Pack Your Storage Unit.

Arrange items based on your needs:

- Determine how often you will need to access each of your items.
- Always place the items that you will need to access frequently toward the front of the unit.
- Create an aisle space so that you can access items from more places.
- Place heavy items on the floor, and stack light and fragile items on top.
- Leave a step ladder near the inside of your unit door for vertical access.

Maximize your space:

- Utilize vertical space by stacking as many items as possible.

- Maximize stacking by filling boxes completely. Make sure boxes have sturdy tops and lids.
- Store sofas on their ends.
- Disassemble large pieces when possible (i.e. take legs off of sofas and tables, break down bed frames, etc.).
- Stack chairs and sofas seat-to-seat.

Fill empty space:

- Store pillows, blankets, and other malleable items in spaces where nothing else will seem to fit.
- Pack small items in trash bags and store in empty spaces.

Stack items that you will not need to access in the back. Utilize as much vertical space as possible.

- Utilize dresser drawers as well as washers and dryers to store clothes or fragile items.
- Bundle long-handled items and store them in corners, under sofas, or behind other items.
